Phillip and Destiny Deas are the Lead Pastors of Northpoint Community Church in Bossier City, Louisiana. Phillip is known for his coach-like communication style that inspires you to grow into the person God has created you to be. Destiny is a gifted communicator that uses authenticity and real-life application to encourage you to follow Jesus in our modern world. Phillip and Destiny have five children, Carolina, Julietta, Ella, Jacob and Koda.

BREAKOUT SESSION:

House Habits: Living on Mission One Habit at a Time - Phillip & Destiny Deas

What is the difference between an organization that has a mission and an organization that lives on mission? We've all encountered those rare people, families, businesses, and non-profits that seem to authentically live out the values they preach while making decisions every day that move them toward a common goal. Those people inspire, intimidate, and certainly make us curious about how such a life is achieved. This was the question that prompted Phillip and Destiny's journey into culture creation within their own home, businesses, and church. House Habits provides an easy-to-follow roadmap for carrying mission into every day. It focuses on our predetermined responses to each other and to the challenges of life.

This is the title of the book they authored, which will also be available.

Joshua Edmon joined the staff at North Central University in 2020. He serves as Associate Vice President of Spiritual Life and Dean of Multicultural Engagement. Joshua holds two master's degrees, in Urban Ministry and Theological Studies. Joshua has served in various ministerial positions, serving as a church campus pastor, a worship pastor, and a missions pastor focusing on church planting. Joshua is married to Sameka and has two children, Skylar and Zachary.

BREAKOUT SESSION:

Unpacking the Language of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion – Joshua Edmon/Desiree Libengood

Our desire here is to learn together, equip you as a leader, and add value. We want you to walk away from this time ready to make disciples of the nations. And to celebrate the vision for kingdom diversity (Rev. 5:9c) Joining him for this breakout session is Desiree Libengood – Associate Vice President of Academic Affairs and Dean of Arts & Sciences.
